The Chairman's Thoughts

The electronics consumer continues to benefit from exciting advances being made in electronics technology. As we look to 1995 and beyond, one of the phenomena that will touch most all of our lives is "wireless." The advent of radio in the early part of the century was once heralded as wireless; but now, previously wired products are becoming truly wireless. Cellular telephone technology is evolving into a broad-based product category that provides security, emergency, convenience and business uses. The traditional cellular telephone market is expanding rapidly, and new applications, such as cellular modems, are becoming more widely used.

Another wireless product that is challenging wired cable TV systems this year is satellite technology. While satellite has been around for a while—using cumbersome 10-foot dishes—today, 18-inch dishes are beginning to make inroads as a new wireless product. There will be other new or improved wireless products in the future, putting new abilities within the reach of all of us.

As you have questions or needs, remember that there is a store nearby that has the answers and is ready to serve you: your neighborhood Radio Shack. Nobody Compares!

49⁹⁹ 44% Off Speed-dialing cordless phone

Big savings and big features! Memory stores up to 10 numbers for fast, accurate speed-dialing — even kids can do it. Handy Quick-Call feature lets you lift handset off the base to make or take calls — no buttons to press. An automatically set security code and our COM-LOK® security system help keep other cordless handsets from using your line. Flash button for easy use of Call Waiting and 3-Way Calling services. Base can be wall-mounted. reg. 89.99. #43-1002AY

YOU'VE GOT QUESTIONS:

How do I get the best performance from my cordless phone handset?

WE'VE GOT ANSWERS:

Cordless phone handsets have a rechargeable Ni-Cd battery inside. To get the best service from this battery, you should follow a few simple rules. When the phone is new, you should fully charge the battery before using the phone. A full charge takes about 24 hours. To conserve the battery, turn the handset off when you are in hearing distance of your regular phone's ring. Use a soft cloth to clean the charging contacts on the base. Also, about once a month you should let the handset discharge fully, and give it a full recharge.

CORDLESS PHONES WITH CLEAR SOUND

Each of these sale-priced cordless phones has Radio Shack's advanced Super CCT circuitry. You get sound quality comparable to a corded phone, a big reduction in background noise, and increased operating range.

Voice-scrambling and 10 channels

Voice-scrambling transmission gives you extra security — virtually eliminates the chance of someone using a radio device to listen in. Just push a button — even during a call — to get the clearest of 10 channels. The memory stores up to 30 phone numbers for accurate speed-dialing. Page button on base lets you "beep" the handset — helps you find it if misplaced. Was 149.99 in '94 cat. #43-565AY

YOU'VE GOT QUESTIONS: Is there a single adapter I can use to power my portable CD player, TV or cassette recorder?

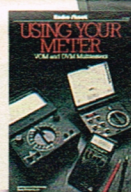

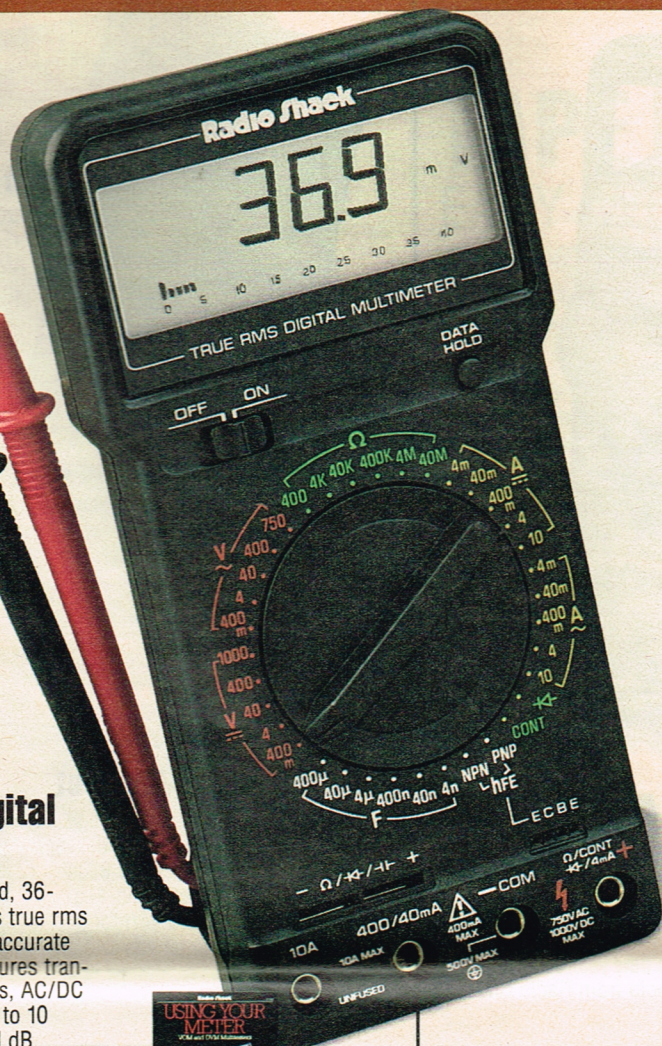

WE'VE GOT ANSWERS: Yes! Radio Shack's Universal AC and DC adapters provide selectable voltages to match the power needed by many portables. These adapters also include a set of our exclusive Adaptaplug® connectors, which provide a safe, secure hookup to your portable. Many other brands of adapters have an "octopus" design with exposed connectors which can short out, causing damage to the adapter, your portable, even your car wiring. Play it safe! Get a quality Radio Shack adapter and start saving money on batteries.
